Types of Bustles

There are four main types of bustles:

- American bustle: This is the most common type of bustle. It creates a smooth, rounded look at the back of the dress.
- French bustle: This bustle creates a more dramatic look, with the train gathered at the back of the waist.

- Austrian bustle: This bustle is similar to the French bustle, but it gathers the train at the back of the hips.
- Under bustle: This bustle is hidden under the dress, so it doesn't change the look of the dress. It's a good option for dresses with a long, heavy train.

How to Bustle Your Gown

Bustling your wedding gown is a relatively simple process, but it's important to practice beforehand so that you can do it quickly and easily on the day of your wedding. Here are the steps:

1. Put on your dress.
2. Find the bustle points on your dress. These are usually located at the back of the waist or hips.
3. Attach the bustle hooks to the bustle points.
4. Pull the train up and over the bustle hooks.
5. Secure the train with the bustle ties.

Tips for Bustling Your Gown

- Practice bustling your gown before the day of your wedding. This will help you get the hang of it and make it easier to do on the day of your wedding.
- Ask your seamstress or a friend to help you bustle your gown. This can be helpful if you're having trouble doing it on your own.
- Make sure the bustle is secure before you start dancing. You don't want your train to come undone in the middle of your first dance.

- If you're wearing a long, heavy train, consider using an under bustle. This will help to support the train and prevent it from dragging on the ground.

Bustling Your Gown on Your Own

If you're confident in your abilities, you can bustle your wedding gown on your own. Here are the steps:

1. Put on your dress.
2. Find the bustle points on your dress. These are usually located at the back of the waist or hips.
3. Attach the bustle hooks to the bustle points.
4. Pull the train up and over the bustle hooks.
5. Secure the train with the bustle ties.
6. Step back and admire your handiwork!

Bustling your wedding gown is a simple process that can make a big difference on your wedding day. By following the steps in this guide, you can bustle your gown like a pro and enjoy your wedding day to the fullest.
