This article provides a detailed guide to matched betting, including tips and tricks to maximize your profits. We will also provide a diary of our own matched betting journey, so that you can follow along and see how we make money from this amazing technique.

How Matched Betting Works

Matched betting works by taking advantage of the free bets and bonuses offered by bookmakers. These offers are designed to attract new customers and encourage existing customers to continue betting with them. However, we can use these offers to our advantage to make a profit, regardless of the outcome of the sporting event.

The basic principle of matched betting is to place two bets on the same event, one at a bookmaker that is offering a free bet or bonus, and one at a betting exchange. The betting exchange bet will be placed at odds that are slightly higher than the odds at the bookmaker. This means that, regardless of the outcome of the event, we will always make a small profit.

Getting Started with Matched Betting

To get started with matched betting, you will need to create accounts with a bookmaker and a betting exchange. We recommend using Betfair as your betting exchange, as they offer the best odds and the lowest commissions.

Once you have created your accounts, you can start looking for free bets and bonuses. These offers can be found on the websites of bookmakers and betting exchanges, as well as in newspapers and magazines.

Once you have found a free bet or bonus, you can follow these steps to place a matched bet:

1. Place a bet at the bookmaker that is offering the free bet or bonus.
2. Place a bet at the betting exchange on the opposite outcome of the event.

3. Calculate your profit using a matched betting calculator.

Tips and Tricks for Matched Betting

Here are a few tips and tricks to help you maximize your profits from matched betting:

- Use a matched betting calculator to calculate your profits before placing any bets.
- Look for free bets and bonuses with low wagering requirements.
- Place your bets at the best possible odds.
- Keep a record of your bets so that you can track your profits and losses.

Matched Betting Festival Diary

We are going to start a matched betting festival diary to track our own progress and share our experiences with you. We will be posting regular updates on our blog, so that you can follow along and see how we make money from matched betting.
